Active Play Active Learning

Find places in your neighbourhood that you might not have thought about as places to play. There are places close to home that will give your children opportunities to learn through active play.

Active Play_Active Learning is a series of play ideas that will encourage parents and children of all ages to be active in local community spaces. EarlyEd's therapists and educators have created great ways for you to help your child develop and use their skills to play, explore and learn.

SCOTT CRESCENT RESERVE

Scott Cres, Roseville (Other entrances from Boundary Street and Eastern Valley Road.)

An interesting little park for a picnic, swinging, sliding and exploring. It was a bit squishy at the bottom after rain because it is on slope.

SAFETY: Though it is a small park and getting out would take some effort, it isn't fenced and 2 of the roads are very busy. The entrance from Scott Crescent is very safe and has a gentle pathway. The path doesn't go up into the park so not great for wheeling. The Boundary Street entry has lots of stairs with no rail. You can park in Boundary but Scott would be safer. There is a path up to Eastern Road so keep an eye on children who wander off.

What can you collect?
